IT Invent is a Java based inventory management application that is both simple and user-friendly. Ideal for users of all levels, IT Invent is the perfect and effective utility that will assist you in maintaining and controlling the complete set of company equipment, software and services. As an added benefit, IT Invent can be used as the engine for a wide array of customized applications. It can be also used for tracking user profiles as well as system information. Features: IT Invent has the following major features: Categorize all your equipment, software and services Inventory all of your computers, servers, mobile phones, PDAs, fax machines, appliances, printers, telephones, etc. Track all of your peripherals, accessories, software and other equipment Monitor and control your companies servers, Web sites, and websites Assign names and nicknames to your equipment Create and edit users and profiles Create and edit a variety of reports Export different reports to Excel or PDF Supports Unicode and International Languages Uses Advanced Oracle Database System (ODS) It is based on Oracle ODS. It is cross platform compatible. Easily customizable I like the fact that when you start a new installation of IT Invent you get the option of choosing to start with Windows or a Linux distribution. I like this because it makes it easier to choose which operating system you want to install. When you install it with Windows you go through a total of 4 steps. First you need to choose your version of Windows. Then you need to choose where you want to install the application (C:/Documents and Settings/Username/Local Settings/Temp/applicationdata/IT Invent). After you install it you get a "Welcome" screen that is very nice. You will then see a "License" screen that you need to read through to get the license for the application. To get the license one of the requirements was I had to already have a premium Oracle ODS license. After that you get a "Guide" to IT Invent for Windows and a "Guide" for Oracle ODb for Windows. These both come as PDF files. The next step is to choose which of your Windows drives you want IT Invent to install on. When you do this you can choose whether you want to run the software when you are not logged in as

IT Invent Cracked 2022 Latest Version is an excellent inventory manager that lets you keep track of all your company's equipment, including hardware, software, printers and other accessories. The application has a customisable interface that you can use to see exactly what is going on in your business. It records all details of the equipment that you use in the company and helps you manage all your assets. No need to look elsewhere Have you ever waited to receive your printer's receipt paper? IT Invent can help you get rid of such problems. All inventory-related work will be displayed in the application's interface, including supplier acquisition, performance issues, and hours of operation, among other useful features. You can search for equipment by name, manufacturer, model, serial number, date of purchase or the amount of time you have had it. Detailed interface with several tabs The first thing that you will notice in the interface is its attractive layout and organization. If you search for specific models or brands, you will see a number of tabs that you can easily navigate. The interface includes a list of all equipment, on which you can make sure that you have everything that you need. In this list, you will find descriptions and prices of the most common products, as well as a history of any issues you might have had with the item. The application is capable of providing you with quick updates on all details, including the history and status of the equipment. Syncs with the cloud You can use the cloud to access information without having to search for it manually. This is a huge benefit, as you can get up to the second details about the company's equipment. If you are using a cloud account, you will have to upload the necessary details such as the OS, serial numbers, time of last service and the type of warranty. Once you have done this, you will be asked to log into the cloud. This process is very easy, as all you need is a standard web browser. Inventory issues Do you have any equipment problems? What if you need to replace it? What if you want to offer more products to your customers? IT Invent can help you answer all these questions. You can search for equipment by name, manufacturer, model, serial number, date of purchase or the amount of time you have had it. In case you do not know how to deal with it, you can add comments so that you can note any issues that might require further attention. You can then keep track of them 09e8f5149f
