california dreams With the former lead singer and drummer for the band Social Distortion and a socialite mother, Townsend had a rough road ahead after the divorce. In May of 2009, she and her new boyfriend, David Feldman, moved to Malibu, California, leaving their son behind. No sooner had they arrived when Townsend and Feldman were pulled over for driving in a dangerous fashion. The woman driving the car was pregnant at the time. TMZ reported that Feldman has been sentenced to eight years in state prison, while Townsend, who was able to sneak out of the scene, has not been charged with a crime. RKS hinterland im pretty sure u could get court orders and force upon them to give u money too, but last time i checked is when i think they start workin for free, but since she has the money and he cant have her then its all his fault. how old is he anyway, did he cause this kind of a mess up on there own or did she have a fight or fight with him and cant pay him, if he dosent pay her and she does not give him a good reason to why he should, she can put down her reasons in court, she could have him arrested and put him in jail if she wanted to, and thats free money for her so i wouldnt just pay it until shes 50 or he is arrested and in jail and already fine her for leaving because thats his fault and done something against her. but, i would say what kind of person would like divorce papers from his wife because their child is no longer living with them due to his actions with ex? shame on him i say, if you dont pay your taxes you get fined, so does your exwife have a way to pull money from him by the state? or dosen she have a way to tell the state that hes not payin his taxes, but hes not with her? so whats she tellin the state and they fine her for being with out him for the last 5 years or whatever?
